About me

I'm a 19 years old student at Latvian University. I have over 5 years of learning Adobe software, like Adobe Photoshop and After Effects. I am able to provide good services varying from text animations, video editing and simple animation made in After Effects to making product design, poster designs using Adobe Photoshop.

I am open to any tasks and would like to partner with you!

Product design advertisement samples

Samples of projects, where the main product is highlighted. This projects were made as volunteer work to showcase my abilities as well as to provide understanding of what functions I am able to perform.

Product design samples

Additional samples of work, where key concepts should've been present. For example, flavour or key colors.

Showcase of other projects

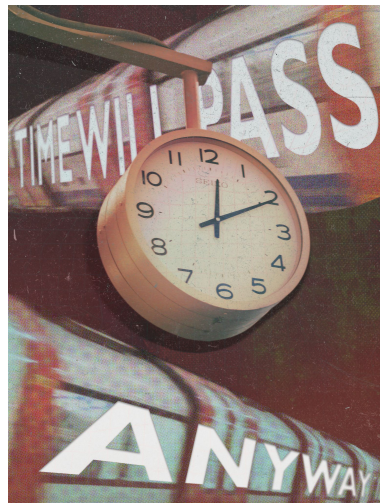

South Korea's development model has been characterized by strong state intervention, strategic investment in education and infrastructure, export-oriented industrialization, and, crucially, the ability to adapt and reform in times of crisis. The government's role in coordinating economic development, particularly in the early stages, was pivotal. However, the success of South Korea also owes much to the dynamism and entrepreneurial spirit of its people and businesses.
